Vada Pav, sometimes spelled Wada Pav, is a popular street vegetarian fast food dish native to Mumbai in India. It is the heart and soul of the entire state of Maharashtra, let alone Mumbai. Vada means 'potato balls' and Pav means 'bun' in the Indian language. Vada Pav is therefore a potato patty in a bun garnished with delicious, tasty, tangy, sweet brown chutneys (relish) and green cilantro chutney and served piping hot. In this class, Mala Patel, who has a Bachelors Degree in Food and Nutrition, will teach you how to make and assemble delicious Vada Pav.

Attendees will be able to observe Mala prepare the dish and will also be able to taste the finished product.

This program is free to attend. Pre-registration is required.
